

IRAN DISTANCES ITSELF FROM HOUTHI STRIKES

This screen grab taken from CCTV footage shows the moment King Khalid International Airport in Riyadh was hit by a Houthi strike on October 10, 2026 | AFP

TEHRAN

IRAN said on Monday it was “deeply concerned” by escalating attacks between Yemen’s Tehran-backed Houthis and Saudi Arabia, after 14 people died in two days of strikes on Riyadh’s airport.

“We are deeply concerned about the developments taking place in the Arabian Peninsula,” foreign ministry spokesman Esmail Baqaei told a weekly press conference, adding that Tehran was ready “to help facilitate dialogue between the parties as the escalation will only benefit the Israeli regime”.

A Houthi strike on Riyadh’s international airport on Sunday killed one person and wounded 11 others, a day after 13 died in the deadliest strike on Saudi soil in more than a decade.

“We absolutely do not want hostilities and war to continue between two Islamic countries,” Baqaei said, urging the parties to resolve the situation “through dialogue and engagement”.

Vessel hit in Hormuz

Iran’s Revolutionary Guards said they struck a vessel on Monday that was attempting to cross the Strait of Hormuz. The ship targeted had tried to sail through the area “by disabling its transponders” and “by ignoring warnings from the Guards’ Navy”, the statement said.

UK summons Iran envoy

Meanwhile, Britain’s PM Andy Burnham said that Iran’s Revolutionary Guards “almost certainly directed” a major scare at a UK airbase used by the US military for its war in Iran. The Foreign Office confirmed in a statement Monday that Iran’s ambassador to the UK had been summoned for talks.

Saudi Arabia plans response after Riyadh airport attack

RIYADH

SAUDI Arabia vowed a “serious” response Monday after Houthi attacks on airports killed at least 18 people, including 13 at Riyadh’s King Khalid International Airport, and wounded hundreds.

Energy Minister Prince Abdulaziz bin Salman said the attacks had tested the kingdom’s infrastructure and resilience. “The events of recent weeks are serious, our response must be equally serious,” he told an energy conference.

Air operations suspended

Saudi authorities extended the suspension of operations at Riyadh airport to verify the safety of its facilities. An aviation source told AFP that operations would remain halted until at least Thursday, with damage reported to terminals, radar and communications equipment. Etihad Airways cancelled flights to and from Riyadh until next week, while Bahrain’s Gulf Air suspended its Riyadh flights until Saturday.

Probe into failures

Saudi Arabia has launched an investigation into how its air defences failed to intercept missiles and drones fired by Yemen’s Iran-backed Houthis, two regional officials told AP.

US weighs response

The US embassy in Saudi Arabia urged American citizens to exercise extreme caution at airports and said US government employees needed special authorization to use them.

The attacks have heightened tensions across the Gulf as the conflict involving Iran continues to disrupt regional security and energy markets. Agencies

Lebanon seizes explosives near Syrian border

BEIRUT: Lebanon’s army said Monday it seized 200 kilogrammes of explosives in the northeastern Hermel region, amid efforts to curb smuggling from Syria. The explosives were being smuggled through an illegal crossing, a judicial official told AFP. The smugglers fled to Syria. The seizure follows the detention of two suspected Hezbollah members transporting half a tonne of explosives near a checkpoint on the road to Beirut. Prime Minister Nawaf Salam vowed to identify those involved, saying authorities would deal firmly with illegal weapons, including their possession, transport and use.

Zelenskyy doubtful on Russian acceptance of ‘energy ceasefire’

KYIV

RUSSIA does not want to accept an “energy ceasefire” in Ukraine announced by Donald Trump, President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said, accusing Moscow of attacking six sites Monday. Zelenskyy earlier promised to respond if Russia refused to agree to the truce, as Moscow indicated it would not adhere to the Trump’s calls for a pause in attacks on power infrastructure.

Trump sowed confusion on Sunday with a surprise announcement on his Truth Social network that there was an agreement on both sides to end their punishing long-range strikes on power plants and oil refineries. “It is increasingly evident that Russia is unwilling to accept an energy ceasefire proposed by the United States,” Zelenskyy said on social media. “Today alone, the Russians have attacked six energy facilities in Ukraine. Thirty-three people were wounded across the country,” he added.

Zelenskyy had said Ukraine would back the ceasefire.

“If Russia does not agree to an energy ceasefire, we will respond,” he told the Warsaw Security Conference. Moscow has refused to say if an “energy ceasefire” was in place and appeared to reject Zelenskyy’s offer of a 60-day pause in hostilities for elections to be held in Ukraine — which both the Kremlin and the White House have demanded. “We don’t want a ceasefire, we want long-term peace,” Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters, saying President Vladimir Putin would only order his troops to cease fire on election day itself.

US senators question legality of Trump’s Russian diesel deal

WASHINGTON: A bipartisan group of US Senators have questioned the legality of Donald Trump’s decision to allow diesel imports from Russia, contending that it ran counter to a law banning such trade till Moscow ends the war in Ukraine. On Friday, after a phone call with Putin, Trump announced that he had struck a deal with Russia to immediately supply 300,000 tons of diesel to the US and the global marketplace. “Congress explicitly banned Russian energy imports in 2022 to prevent American dollars from financing Putin’s brutal war against Ukraine,” US Senators Jeanne Shaheen, Richard Blumenthal, Ron Wyden (all Democrats), Susan Collins, Lisa Murkowski, Thom Tillis, and John Curtis (all Republicans), said in a statement here on Sunday. “Trump’s decision to allow Russian diesel imports to the US runs directly counter to that law,” the Senators said. Trump’s move came weeks after Congress cleared sanctions and 100% tariffs on Russian oil buyers. PTI
